That was the day I opened Lanpro Auto. I can still remember the excitement & nervousness I felt. For me it was a huge step & gamble as I left a really good paying job as Parts, Service & Body Shop Manager at a Nissan dealership to go out on my own. There was a lot of pressure on me to succeed at that time as I had a wife & two young children to provide for.

It's been quite a wild ride up to this point in time. When I say 33 years, I go, oh my goodness, that's a long time, but on the other hand, I go, I can't believe it's gone by that quickly.

I started Lanpro with 3 bays at the corner of Ellice & Wall St., sharing the building with a car rental company. After a few years the rental company moved and I took the whole building over which gave me 4 bays and a proper reception area.

After 8 years my lease was coming up, the building owners wanted to only let me have a yearly lease, which meant to me they had other plans. I was correct, & a year after I moved out they tore the building down. So, at the time I had to decide, do I lease again or once again, take the risk and purchase a place? I decided it was best to purchase my own place which gives me control of my destiny. This brings me to where we are today. A nine bay repair facility & also sell pre-owned vehicles.

Through the many ups & downs we have become a well established place thanks to all of you that have supported us.

Our biggest challenges right now is keeping up with all the technological changes & finding qualified technicians. In fact, right at this moment, one of our techs had to quit suddenly, as his mother in Vietnam has a brain tumor that needs to becon't on page 3

“Ultimate Car Care So You Can Have Safe and Breakdown Free Driving”

7 Important Reasons to Add Winter Tires to Your Ride

Winter, and the associated snow, ice, cold and climatic nastiness that goes with it, will be with us Canadians shortly,

You know that winter tires will make your ride safer if you're driving in winter. You know that you should probably install a set, because they're a good idea. If you ask someone you know who owns winter tires they'll tell you they make a big difference for grip, handling, traction and all-around confidence.

Since you know that installing winter tires are an all-around solid idea, the balance of this article won't be your typical preach-piece about putting winter rubber on your ride and what could happen if you don't. Instead, we'll focus on a few key benefits you can expect by installing a set—especially on your newer car, truck or SUV model.

Compromise-Free

Winter tires have both a flexible rubber compound and unique tread design that's made exclusively for use on snow, slush and ice and in cold temperatures. With no compromises made for other seasons, drivers will benefit from significantly increased traction during acceleration, notable shorter stopping distances, and a drastic increase in directional stability at speed. Where all-season tires are a little bit good in the heat and a little bit good in the cold, winter tires specialize in cold-weather driving, and it shows. With the compromise-free, cold-weather engineering behind winter tires, drivers can enjoy the cold-weather travel season with peace of mind to spare for themselves, or anyone using their ride.

Maximized AWD Performance

All Wheel Drive (AWD) is a favorite bit of powertrain hardware with Canadian shoppers in numerous vehicle types. Today's models have more fast-acting, precise and sophisticated all-wheel drive systems than ever before, and whether you drive a Subaru, Ford, Acura, Hyundai or Mitsubishi, your ride's AWD system reacts with millisecond precision to low-traction situations to keep you and your family safe by supporting you in maintaining vehicle control.

So, if you've invested in AWD, why not consider maximizing the system's performance with a set of winter rubber? Remember: the only way to increase the amount of physical traction between a vehicle and the road's surface is through the tires. Proper tires for the season give your AD system plenty more grip to work with, allowing it to do its job with maximum effectiveness.

Not Just for Snow and Ice

Did you know that all-season or summer performance tires get really, really hard when it's cold outside? Since effective traction relies on tires being soft and malleable against the road's surface, hard tires can be a recipe for disaster. In cold weather, even on dry roads, the softer, more flexible rubber used in the construction of winter tires provides that all-important give that all-season tires lose when it's cold out. Translation? Even on dry roads, winter tires work better in the winter.

Winter is breathing down our necks. Is your vehicle ready? The hot summer puts a lot of stress on the components of your car. The worst part is you don't find out about the damage it's done until you are sitting in the freezing cold on the side of the road. That's why we came up with the Seasonal Maintenance Inspections. Right now we are doing the Fall/Winter Tune Check Up which includes an oil & filter.

Also to help us celebrate our Anniversary, I've included some coupons. Call today to set up an appointment. 204-783-5802
